FLORIDA KILOWATTS IN 1953 INCREASED GREATER THAN NATIONAL AVERAGE

Electric plants in Florida have increased their total producing power by 25 percent since early 1951, expanding to meet the growth of the State. The national increase during the same period was 19 percent.

The installed capacity of electric generating plants in Florida stood in mid-1953 at 1,531,458 kilowatts. This capacity was made up of 1,339,647 kilowatts in general utility plants, both public and private, and 191,811 kilowatts in industrial plants.

Marking the industrial progress of the State, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce pointed out that industrial electric capacity has increased 46 percent since January of 1951.

Electricity produced last year by all plants in Florida reached 7,390,886 kilowatt hours. A recent business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division shows 6,414,102 kilowatt hours as produced by utility plants and 978,794 kilowatt hours by private industry for its own use. This latter figure does not include sales of electricity to manufacturing firms which buy from regular utility plants.

Electricity produced by both utility and industrial plants increased 17 percent during 1952 over 1951 production. Through May of 1953 production has run another 17 percent higher than during the same months of 1952.

Don't give up and let your boat go down.

Just because there's a storm a-blowin'!

JUST KEEP RIGHT ON A-ROWIN'

"And he saw them tolling in rowing! for the wind was contrary unto them."

Don't give up and let your boat go down.

Just because there's a storm a-blowin'!

"And he saw them tolling in rowing! for the wind was contrary unto them."

Don't give up and let your boat go down.

Just because there's a storm a-blowin'!

Head your boat straight into the gale,

And show no signs of a-slowin'! Let the winds blow, and howl and wail, But you just keep right on a-rowin'!

The Master will come, of this be sure; Just when, we've no way of a knowin'. So man your oars and pull for short.

And you just keep right on a-rowin'!

He'll command the storms to cease, And the winds they'll stop a-blowin'!

The billows will all settle down in peace, If you'll just keep right on a-rowin'!

You'll land safely on that blissful shore, Where to your harbor of peace you're a-goin'.

And the storms then will all be o'er, If you'll just keep right on a-rowin'.

A MOMENT

There was a moment this morning, This very early morning when the full moon sang on the western hills, When I glimpsed the road ahead, The road that I must follow if I am not to fail in life's unfolding.

The glimpse was good for me, Too much I had been looking backward, Viewing with pride the climb I had accomplished, Feeling above, Immeasurably above, The crowd who tolled below me, Now that I have found perspective, Have seen my position in relation to the peak, I have shrunk to the stature of a pigmy;

Only my will remains. My will to climb expands as vast Antaeus, My will is heaven born, Merely the sight of Heaven's heights recharges it with power, I will go on, The will to grow, Creates a body adequate, Draws strength from heaven's batteries 'til I'm strong, So strong I face the upward road, Entirely unafraid.

From The Wayfarer.

EPISCOPALIANS HELD FIRST SERVICE SUNDAY

Excellent attendance signaled the beginning of regular Episcopal services last Sunday in the Belle Glade Woman's Club building. Father John Petrie, who is vicar of the new St. John's congregation as well as of Clewiston, celebrated the Holy Communion. In his sermon he explained that from the first days of Christianity it was believed that the inward and invisible part of the sacrament and wine consecrated by the priest were the Body and Blood of Christ. This precious treasure was entrusted to the care of the Apostles who in turn appointed others to carry on the sacrament. The Presence would be invoked down through the ages until the end of time; the church is not a club, nor a society of people who happen to enjoy religion; said the vicar, "It is the mystical Body of Christ on earth, divinely ordained to enable men to begin

SCRIPTURE LESSON — Titus 2:7-8; 3:1-11

LESSON TOPIC — "Counsel For Christians" By Rev. Robert Ford

INTRODUCTION

Paul writes this letter to one of his most trusted helpers, Titus. Titus was a Greek who was influential in the Gentile Churches in Achaia and Macedonia. At the time of the writing of this letter Titus has been sent to Crete for general supervision of the work of the Church there.

All the letters of Paul are similar in many respects. All of them lay great stress on Christian Doctrine. This is followed by detailed counsels on everyday duty. These two belong together. Paul's union of the great doctrine and the commandments duties is very practical. Some information is given on a faith that doesn't express itself in good living; something is very weak about human efforts to achieve goodness which neglects the help of God.

ADVICE TO TITUS — Titus 2:7-8

Here Paul tells Titus to watch his personal life. In Crete, the Gospel was in conflict with the gross immorality of a decadent people. Paul here sets the high standard of conduct for the follower of Christ.

ADVICE TO THE CRETEAN CHRISTIANS — Titus 3:1-8

Obedience to Civil Authority — Titus 3:1-2

Christians in the early Church were always urged to obey the law. They were to be examples as good citizens. Of course such obedience was qualified by the command to obey God rather than man.

THE GRACE OF GOD — Titus 3:8

Having set the goal of Christian character, Paul in verse 3 gives a description of the Christians before conversion. The contrast between the same people before and after conversion leads him back to his great theme of the salvation which they have received by the grace of God. Even when Paul is giving practical advice he finds he must testify to the Grace of God.

CLOSING ADVICE — Titus 2:9-15

Paul here sums up the whole of his Letter to Titus.

CONCLUSION: Good Works — Divine Grace

How do they fit together? As an expression of the saved life every good work is significant. Goodness is a natural, logical, and appropriate expression of the experience of Salvation. It is as natural as it is for a good tree to bring forth good fruit.

THIS WEEK'S SERMONETTE

"MY CUP RUNNETH OVER" — Ps. 23.5

By Rev. W. F. Schoech, pastor St. Peter's Lutheran Church

Our cup is running over with NATURAL BLESSINGS. God gives us bread day after day. He shelters us against the cold and the heat, the wind and the rain. Our homes are not mere hovels; our beds are not stone slabs; our food is wholesome and tasty. God never fails to provide us with the things that we need for the support of our body and life.

Our cup is running over also with PERSONAL BLESSINGS. We are surrounded by loved ones who are deeply concerned about our well-being and comfort. We have hosts of friends, who are always concerned about making life more pleasant for us.

Our cup is running over with SPIRITUAL BLESSINGS. God has given us His Word as a lamp unto our feet and a light unto our path to make us

The South Bay-Schools opened Tuesday under direction of Principal Pelton Morris with an initial enrollment of 121 pupils which is 20 percent greater than the first day's enrollment last year. Considering the fact that many families have not yet returned from spending the summer further north, Principal Morris anticipates a big year.

The Principal and faculty of EVH are proud to announce that the student enrollment, as of the first day's registration, September 8, 1953 is approximately 399 pupils. WE ARE PARTNERS

We, the employees and stockholders of Gulfstream Park, like to feel that we are partners with the people of Florida in the building of a greater state.

The people of Florida have helped us to prosper and through that of hard work to constantly improve our racing plant. In return, we have helped keep your taxes down by turning over $8,061,626.92 to the governments of the 67 counties and $14,922,195 to the state to help the needy aged, the blind and the dependent children. In addition, we have contributed more than $75,000 to a scholarship fund, to help worthy young people get an education and proportionate sums to various other charities.

We appreciate the opportunity we have had to do these things. We hope to make even greater contributions to a better Florida in the future.

IN 1952 FLORIDIANS

EARNED $4,080,000,000. Last year Floridians earned a total income of $4,088,000,000, more by 8 percent than during 1951.

This increase in total income ranked Florida sixth among the States and highlights Florida's growth, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce pointed out recently. The national figure was 5 percent and the south-eastern region gained 6 percent. Since 1929 the total income of Florida residents has increased 468 percent. The gain from 1940 was 354 percent and from 1950 to 1952 it increased 21 percent. Each of these gains is appreciable above both national and regional figures.

Florida's relatively better position in regard to total income is brought out in this week's business review of the State Chamber's research and statistics division. In 1929 Floridians received 84 percent of the total national income. By 1940 this proportion increased to 119 percent and to 160 percent by 1952. A slight drop after the war was followed by improvement in 1950 and by last year had again reached 160 percent of national.

ARENA NEWS

Thanks to all of you good people who attended our Bar-B-Que at the Legion Hall recently. Our little shindig turned out to be lots of fun and profitable to all. Everyone seemed to enjoy the food, we don't think anyone went away hungry. If so turn your name in and when Bar-B-Que time rolls around again you can have a double helping. No kidding!

The food was prepared by clubmembers and the meat was due to a turn by none other than Ray Whitlock. Following the supper a street dance was held with some good "ole square dance music," by the "Machine Shop Five" setting the pace for the rest of the evening. Rain drove the dancers inside but failed to dampen their spirits. At 12 pm after swinging their partners and "do do do," everyone promenade their partners home.

The regular meetings are held the first and third Wednesday of each month at the Glades Livestock Market. Visitors are welcome at any time. After the business meetings, interesting programs will be given and refreshments served. Next meeting will be Sept. 16, with rodeo movies to be shown after the business meet. All members are urged to attend as a matter of importance, must be settled by vote.

The saying that "everything grows good in the Glades" has really proven true concerning the Glades Saddle Club. The Club started with 31 charter members and now has over 70 with more members joining every day. At this rate there is no reason why our organization cannot become one of the best known clubs of its type in the state. What our members lack at experience in the rodeo field they are making up with effort. Our rodeo practice must create some interest as there was over a hundred spectators out last Sunday week. Some excitement took place when one of our more experienced riders, Buck Lee, was unable to move quickly enough and was run down by two horses going at break neck speed. Mr. Lee suffered a dislocated shoulder and numerous bruises and scratches, but is O.K. now.

The club entered a relay team in the Okeechobee Rodeo on Labor Day. Those participating were Hyman Harris, Fritz Stein, Jimmy Reese and Johnny Schlechter, also they didn't win they made a good showing. The Club has acquired land adjoining the Experiment Station pavilion and a rodeo arena will be built as soon as funds are available. It plans proceed the club will sponsor a rodeo sometime this winter. As Belle Glade is one of the best central locations of south Florida there is no reason why the rodeo cannot become an annual affair.

Sunday practice will be resumed at Schlechter's Ranch as soon as it is dry enough to be used, so we will see you at the arena, amigos.

New Veterans Preference Act. The 83rd Congress hurriedly passed the new Veterans Preference Act in the last days of the session. The bill was approved August 14, 1953 and becomes effective in 60 days from that date.

Since the passage of a Veterans Preference Act in 1924, agency chiefs who wanted to evade the obligations of the law made use of a loophole which permitted them to get around the intent of the act, that is, to give veterans first priority to government jobs.

Up to now, any government agency passing over a veteran at the top of an eligible list was required by law to state its reasons in writing to the U. S. Civil Service Commission. The CSC could reject the reasons as inadequate, but that was all. The agency could disregard the veterans rights because the CSC did not have any authority to back up its own findings.

Under the new Act, agencies will not merely "consider" the recommendations of the CSC, they will not have to comply with the finding of the CSC when it rules that the reasons for bypassing the veteran are insufficient.

This amendment changes that section which exempts professional and scientific jobs paying $3,000 or more a year. It is expected that this change will open thousands of jobs to veterans and preference jobs to veterans.

It also provides that preference eligible veterans who had made passing grades and who have compensable service-connected disabilities of 10 percent or more, will be entitled to "float" to the top of their registers. Disabled veterans not yet to get their 10 points of preference, but will not automatically rise to the top of their registers.

Cream Whips Main Street Traffic

Big traffic jam in front of the office last week. Thought everybody in the county was coming in to buy The Clinician, but they weren't.

Seems a 5-pullon can fall off Whitney Fisher's truck, pulling cream all over the street. Our cop on duty, Tiny Fields, halted traffic so Whitney could pick up the can. Tiny was about to wave the cars on when a kitten ran out and started lapping up the cream. Well, traffic piled up, but Tiny paid no heed. Light changed green three times. After the kitten had enough, Tiny waved the traffic through.

From where I sit, this was just a "Tiny" demonstration of the way people in our town are. They're usually pretty considerate and tolerant. If one of our neighbors prefers a good glass of beer to his friend's coffee at dinner time, it's just each to his own taste and everything's "smooth as cream" between them.

Too Late To Classify

By Russell Key

For years motorists have amused themselves by playing games while on tour to pass the time on long trips and help entertain the children. Some folks watch signs along the highway in an attempt to complete the alphabet, starting with the letter "A" they then look for "B, C, D," and so on and the first person in the car to complete the alphabet is the winner.

Others watch license tag numbers and try to make poker hands or try to see how many different state licenses they can record. Some folks make a note of the number of vehicles they pass over a given distance or during a period of time.

Now comes A. E. Baril, president of Hudson Motor Car Company, with the suggestion that motorists can indulge in another game that would be more constructive and might help to improve on passengers the importance of safety and lead to better motoring and safer travel for everyone.

His company has devised a clever "Safe Driving Check List" copies of which will soon be available at all Hudson dealers. This chart, with blank spaces for pencil notations, lists all of the more common driving offenses that endanger highway travel and lead to accidents.

Over the years there has been a lot of argument over the question of who are the safest drivers, men or women, and what about teen-agers. By using the Hudson chart and playing it like a game, you will get a definite answer to these questions and also be impressing on your subconscious mind the things motorists do that imperil their lives and those of other drivers.

Among these driving offenses are: exceeding the speed limit, passing on the right, passing on a hill or curve, passing on a shoulder, following too close, failing to stop for school bus, weaving in and out of traffic, riding the center line, crossing center line where prohibited, making turns from wrong lane, parking in prohibited areas, trying to beat the red light, entering or leaving car from wrong side, failing to signal properly and ignoring traffic signs and warnings.

Baril suggests that instead of counting letters or checking licenses to occupy our time while motoring, that we make a game out of noting driving offenses. He particularly advocates this as a game for children as it will not only prove a source of entertainment but will impress on the young minds the importance of observing traffic laws and acquaint them with the principles of safe driving.

Recently Hudson sponsored a non-stop run from New York to San Francisco, sending a couple of personable young women on the cross-country journey, instructed to be careful and observe every traffic regulation and use the check list in noting driving offenses of other motorists enroute.

Proving that speed isn't too important, they made the trip in three days, eight hours and 15 minutes, never driving over 60 miles an hour in daylight or more than 50 miles an hour at night, and at the same time carefully observing every traffic regulation.

Arriving at Los Angeles, the local Safety Council arranged for a competitive drive from the airport to the City Hall. The women drivers again obeyed all speed regulations and traffic rules while their opponent broke as many as he could, running lights, cutting in ahead of other cars and attempting to make time. The reckless driver won,

HELP YOUR SAFETY PATROL
PREVENT DEATH OR INJURY

Safety

Help School Safety Patrol members prevent death or injury in traffic accidents to Florida children.

This plea to motorists was made today by Robert J. Finley, manager of the AAA South Florida Division as the Club released the September kit of AAA safety education material to teachers in elementary and junior high schools, based on the slogan "Help Your Safety Patrol."

"The new materials are the first of a series of ten kits to be issued monthly by the Club to aid teachers in the important task of continuously reminding children of the dangers of street traffic and of the time-proven practices of safe walking," Mr. Finley said.

"Motorists have a real responsibility to help School Safety Patrols do the top-quality job necessary to prevent tragedies involving school children. The presence of a white-belted Safety Patrol member should be a signal to motorists to slow down and be especially alert for child traffic. Safety Patrol members are taught not to stop or cut off traffic but to help children across when there are safe intervals in traffic flow. Motorists can greatly help by slowing down and stopping at hazardous corners to permit children to make a safe crossing."

"Safety Patrols have done a remarkable job of safeguarding their classmates, and coupled with school safety education and fine police work, have reduced accidents involving school children by one-third in the past 30 years while accidents to all other age-groups doubled," Mr. Finley added.

FAVORABLE OUTLOOK FOR LIVESTOCK SEEN IN FLORIDA REPORT

The outlook for livestock feed supplies and production in Florida and the nation is generally good, according to a recent report of the Florida Agricultural Outlook Committee published in Gainesville recently.

However, the report states, Florida continues to be a deficit feed-producing state, and farmers should carefully consider their feed needs and plan to continue to supplement their feed grain production with such quick-growing grazing crops as grain sorghum and millet. In this way they can avoid depending on purchased feed and so lessen the effect of the price squeeze for farm products.

In the nation as a whole the combined stocks of corn, oats and barley in all positions on April 1 totaled 61 million tons—nearly 7 million tons larger than a year ago. The committee says it appears probable that the carry-over of feed grains into 1953-54 will total around one-third larger than a year ago, with all of the increase in corn. About 20 million tons of feed grains were carried over last year.

Supplies of corn on hand on April 1 this year were about 1,000,000 bushels, or 300,000,000 bushels more than at that time in 1952. This was less than the all-time record reached in April 1949, but higher than any other year. Hay prospects are excellent.

The report says farmers fed their livestock about 9 percent less grain and other concentrates during the first half of the 1952-53 feeding season than the year before. Considerably less corn was fed. Consumption of oilseed cake was a little smaller, and stocks on hand on April 1 were the largest in recent years. Prices of feed grains and mill feeds have declined about 10 percent below last year, and the committee says further declines seem likely. Wholesale prices for several high protein feeds, including cottonseed meal, tankage and meat scraps, also have declined about 18 percent below last year's prices.

In Florida, the home-produced feed supply was adversely affected by the drought in the northern section of the state. Out production was satisfactory, but lack of storage caused much of it to be shipped out of the state.

The committee urges farmers not to neglect maintenance of their permanent pastures, even though few new ones are expected to be established. It will pay to use Florida citrus and cane molasses as supplements to pastures and home grown feeds, the report says.
